India-Jordan Relations: The "Anchor of Stability" in West Asia

Published On: 18-12-2025

Background: India and Jordan established diplomatic ties in 1950. While historically viewed through the prism of the Palestine conflict, the PM's standalone visit in 2025 signals a de-hyphenated foreign policy. Jordan serves as a crucial partner in India's "Link West" policy, acting as a bridge between the Mediterranean and the Gulf.

Basics of Bilateral Ties:

- Fertilizer Diplomacy: Jordan is India's largest source of Rock Phosphate and phosphoric acid, vital for India's food security (PM-PRANAM scheme).
- Aqaba Process: An initiative by King Abdullah II for international cooperation against terrorism and radicalization, which India actively supports.
- Palestinian Cause: Jordan is the "Custodian of Holy Sites" in Jerusalem. India's engagement with Jordan reaffirms support for a Two-State Solution while maintaining ties with Israel.

Significance for UPSC:

- Regional Stability: Jordan is a rare peaceful nation in a region torn by the Syria-Iraq conflicts.
- Energy and Trade: Discussions on the India-Middle East-Europe Economic Corridor (IMEC) and its potential links to Jordanian ports are critical for GS II questions on global connectivity.
