Issues with expansion of BSF jurisdiction

Published On: 24-01-2024

Why is in news? Why Punjab moved SC against the expansion of BSF jurisdiction?

The Supreme Court is set to hear the dispute over the expansion of the Border Security Force (BSF) jurisdiction in Punjab. Final hearings in this case will commence in four weeks.

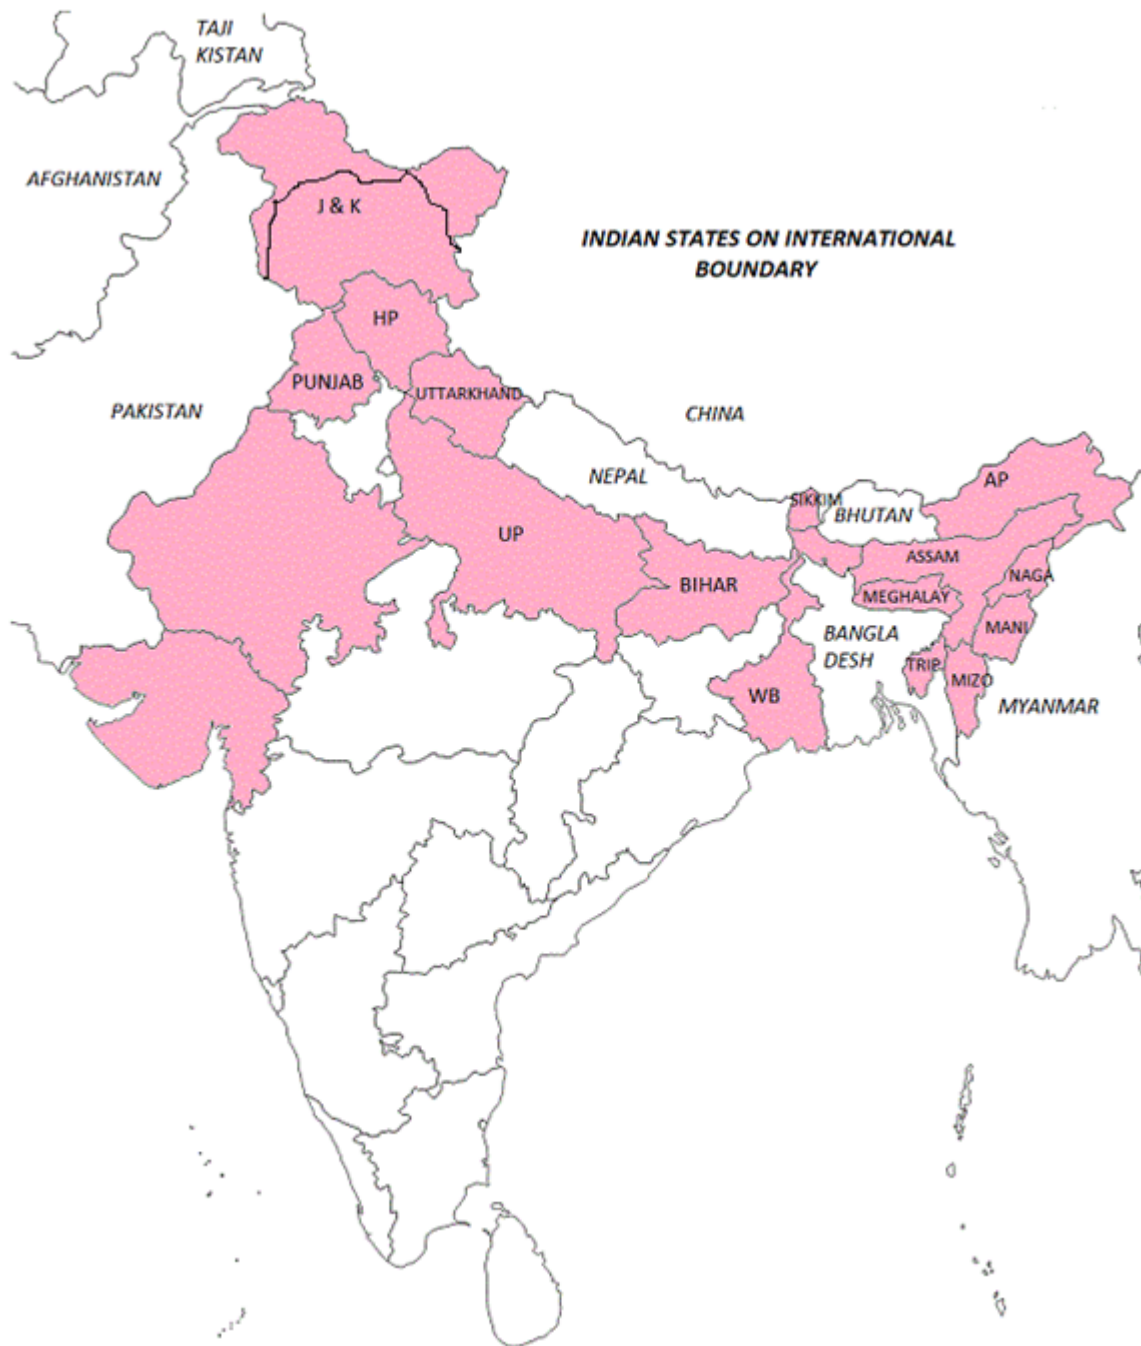

On October 11, 2021, the Ministry of Home Affairs issued a notification expanding the jurisdiction of the BSF in Punjab, West Bengal and Assam. This was challenged by the Punjab government the following December.

Border Security Force (BSF) is a specialized centrally controlled force to man the International Border with Pakistan.

It is one of the five Central Armed Police Forces of the Union of India and is under the administrative control of Ministry of Home Affairs.

Based on the recommendations of the Committee of Secretaries in the wake of the 1965 War, BSF came into existence on 01st Dec 1965.

BSF has been termed as the First Line of Defence of Indian Territories.

BSF is deployed at various integrated checkpoints of borders with Pakistan and Bangladesh and is handling the security issues in the famous Kartarpur Corridor.

Need for the extension of BSF jurisdiction:

The BSF was created after the enactment of the Border Security Force Act in September 1968.

The BSF is meant to secure India's borders with its neighbouring nations and is empowered to arrest, search and seize under a number of laws, such as the Criminal Procedure Code, the Passports Act, the Passport (Entry into India) Act, and the NDPS Act, to name a few.

Section 139(1) of the BSF Act allows the central government, through an order, to designate an area “within the local limits of such area adjoining the borders of India” where members of the BSF can exercise powers to prevent offenses under any Acts that the central government may specify.

Prior to the notification issued in October 2021, the BSF could exercise its powers within 15 kilometres of the border in Punjab, West Bengal and Assam. The Centre expanded this to within 50 kilometres of the border.

The notification states that, within this larger 50-kilometre jurisdiction, the BSF can only exercise powers under the Criminal Procedure Code, the Passport (Entry into India) Act and the Passports Act. For other central legislations, the 15-km limit remains.

On December 7, 2021, the Minister of State for Home Affairs, clarified in writing that this expansion was in response to the increased use of drones and Unmanned Aerial Vehicles, which have long-range capabilities and enable surveillance and the smuggling of arms and fake currency. He also highlighted the ‘menace of cattle smuggling’ and pointed out that smugglers often seek refuge outside BSF jurisdiction.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta also claimed that the notification makes the BSF jurisdiction uniform across states, as the 50-kilometre limit was already in place in Rajasthan. The same notification reduced the jurisdiction in Gujarat from 80 km to 50 km.

Punjab's argument:

The state of Punjab filed an ‘original suit’ against the central government in the Supreme Court in December 2021.

The Supreme Court has ‘original jurisdiction’ in disputes between the central government and states under Article 131 of the Constitution, which means cases of this kind can only be heard for the first time at the SC “to the exclusion of any other court”.

The Punjab government claimed that expanding the jurisdiction of the BSF would compromise the state's exclusive powers to legislate on matters involving the police and public order. These powers are provided in Entries 1 and 2 of the State List under Article 246 of the Constitution.

They also claimed that the notification was issued without consulting with any of the states concerned. Shortly after the notification was released, the then Chief Minister of Punjab Charanjit Singh Channi called it “a direct attack on federalism”.

Arguing before the SC in December 2023, Additional Advocate General for the state of Punjab, Shadan Farasat, claimed that in Punjab, a large number of cities and towns would fall within this 50-kilometre jurisdiction, whereas in Gujarat and Rajasthan, most areas along the international border are sparsely populated, primarily containing marshlands or deserts.

Have other states joined the challenge?

Currently, no other challenge is tagged with the Punjab government, though the notification was met with pushback from West Bengal when it was released.

Shortly after the October 2021 notification, the West Bengal Assembly had passed a resolution demanding its withdrawal.

Issues that the SC will consider:

The court will decide if the notification expanding the jurisdiction of the BSF was arbitrary or backed by legitimate reasons.

Further, the court will determine if this notification interferes with the powers of the local police and encroaches upon states powers under the Constitution.

The SC will also decide what factors have to be considered when deciding which areas are “within the local limits of such area adjoining the borders of India” and whether all states must be treated alike when determining these local limits.

Finally, the court will decide if the notification can be challenged through an original suit under Article 131 of the Constitution.

Way Forward:

In light of the current security situation in India’s surrounding region, there is no need to alter the relationship between the national armed forces and local civil authorities. However, it is recommended that the national government consults with state governments before deploying the armed forces, if possible.

Each state government can collaborate with the central government to develop plans to enhance the strength of their armed police.

Additionally, neighbouring states can establish a mutual agreement to utilise each other’s armed police when necessary.

The Zonal Council is suggested as the ideal platform for states within a specific zone to reach a consensus on implementing such an arrangement.
